

Re: Justice for whom?

I fail to see how reducing the sentence or vacating the conviction of a criminal because of police malfeasance serves the cause of justice. The two seem totally unrelated. Why should the criminal benefit? I say charge the police who allegedly committed the assault described, and let the criminal conviction stand.